

Top 10 US educators to follow on Twitter

@alicekeeler

A teacher, mom of five, expert in EdTech integration and virtual learning, speaker and author. Alice is passionate about student centered teaching and using tech to build relationships, empower and equip students, and make learning better.

@ClassTechTips

Dr. Monica Burns is a Curriculum and EdTech Consultant, Apple Distinguished Educator and Founder of ClassTechTips.com. Monica was part of her school's leadership team and was a vocal advocate for bringing one-to-one technology into her classroom.

@sarahdateechur

Sarah-Jane Thomas, PhD is a Regional Technology Coordinator in a large district in Maryland. She is the founder of the EduMatch project, which promotes connection and collaboration among educators around the world.

@JenWilliamsEdu

Recognized as a transformational leader in education, Dr. Jennifer Williams has dedicated herself for nearly 25 years to the field of education through her roles as an education activist, professor, school administrator, literacy specialist, and classroom teacher.

@JakeMillerTech

Jake is an 8th-grade science teacher, EdTech and learning enthusiast, and host of the Educational Duct Tape podcast. Jake previously spent five years as a technology integration specialist and an additional 12 years in the classroom teaching math, science and STEM at various grade levels.

@K_shelton

Ken currently holds an M.A. in Education with a specialization in Educational Technology as well as New Media Design and Production. He has worked as an educator for over 20 years and spent most of his classroom experience teaching technology at the Middle School level.

@jmattmiller

Matt Miller found that textbooks were more an obstacle to learning than a help. He ditched them. For years, he's learned what works better than traditional "textbook" teaching and shared those ideas widely.

@JaimeDonally

Jaime Donally is a passionate technology enthusiast. She began her career as a math teacher and later moved into Instructional Technology. Her desire to build relationships has brought about opportunities to collaborate with students and educators around the world.

@tonyvincent

Tony has been on a mission to help teachers be more awesome, and that often involves technology. Over the years he has authored books, produced videos, developed an iPad app, and blogged about learning and technology—all in an effort to support great teaching and deeper learning.

@rmbyrne

Richard Byrne, five time winner of the Edublogs Award for Best Resource Sharing Blog, has spoken at events all over North America, Europe, Australia, Southeast Asia, and the Middle East. His work focuses on sharing free web-based resources to help enhance students' learning experiences.